Ways of Working

Subheading that sets up context, shares more info about the author, or generally gets people psyched to keep reading

- Reproducible Analytical Pipelines (RAP)

Reproducible Analytical Pipelines \(RAP\) are becoming the standard for creating analytical outputs in government; combining a number of ways of working that help to improve the reliability, transparency, and speed of statistics publications. Recently the Goldacre Review identified RAP as the essential element to ensure high-quality analysis.

Both our internal and external work constantly has one eye on how to increase the level of RAP and support reuse of our work.
